The Fast Track Program for Children at Risk: Preventing Antisocial Behavior by Conduct Problems Prevention Research Group, Karen L. Bierman PhD, John D. Coie PhD, Kenneth A. Dodge PhD, Hardcover

RDoC attempts to bring modern research approaches in genetics, neuroscience, and behavioral science to the problems of mental illness, studied independently from the classification systems by which patients are currently grouped.

Previous Reports

Fredrick, Jacqueline and Eva Holzer. Public and private organizations with oversight responsibility for nonprofit hospitals and health systems are scrutinizing their performance more closely than ever and are expecting more accountability by the persons who govern and manage them. It seemed that children had benefited.

National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH)

It is a nonpartisan organization guided by a self-elected Board of Directors and has individual and corporate members across the state. In addition, eradication of the virus from HIV-infected individuals to achieve a cure or a functional cure is a high priority.

Primary and Secondary Prevention of Cancer in Children and Adolescents: Current Status and Issues

When I first began researching the topic for this paper, my friend had just enrolled in the trial and was filled with extreme hope that the experimental treatment would be successful in beating the insidious disease. The Goldsboro asylum received its first criminal insane patients in September 1924; the North Carolina Insane Asylum received its first transfers from the state prison in January 1925.

The History of Mental Health reform in North Carolina

Greenberg, supra note 37, at 316. Smog: Make It or Break It. Societal realities are demanding fundamental change in the mission and goals of public and private health organizations and the services they provide to their communities.

B. National Health Profiles

Promulgated in 1991, the Common Rule applies to all research involving human subjects conducted, supported or otherwise subject to regulation by any federal department or agency.
