The Leaders Of The CPSU Are The Greatest Splitters Of Our Times

Later Marx and Engels again sharply criticized the leaders of the German Party for tolerating the activities of the opportunists inside the Party. Yet obviously it was Bernstein, Kautsky and other opportunists who were the splitters, and not revolutionaries like Lenin.

C O N T E N T S THE STRUGGLE FOR THE CREATION OF A SOCIAL-DEMOCRATIC LABOUR PARTY IN RUSSIA 1883-1901. Pollitt answers, that in 1945 nobody expected the victory of the Labourites because every worker out of millions of English workers who had lived through the hard years of depression, when the Conservatives were in power, took a decision for themselves that they shall not permit the Conservatives to come to power.

Stalin and the 'British Road to Socialism'

Comrade Stalin observes that none the less the Conservatives also got a large number of votes. To oppose the first socialist country in the world and the Party founded by the great Lenin — what insolence! Though the BRS recognised the significance of the Labour Party and the trade union movement it perpetuated the myth that a left social democratic electoral alternative to Labour could succeed while at the same time calling for working-class unity in the fight for social justice and the re-election of a Labour government.

Stalin and the 'British Road to Socialism'

It is the consistent policy of the bourgeoisie to create splits within the ranks of the proletariat.

Stalin and the 'British Road to Socialism'

In their mutual relations, each fraternal Party maintains its independence and at the same time unites with all the others. At the beginning of the twentieth century, the Russian working class, standing at the forefront of the international proletarian movement, won victory in the proletarian revolution for the first time in history. On July 14, in the midst of the talks between the Chinese and Soviet Party delegations in Moscow, the Central Committee of the CPSU published its Open Letter to Party organizations and all Communists in the Soviet Union, in which it distorted the facts, confused right and wrong, and blatantly and demagogically attacked and abused the Chinese Communist Party and Comrade Mao Tse-tung.
