I was first exposed to Exclusion and Embrace in my final year of seminary 2004 and sixteen years later my well marked copy of this profound work continues to challenge and inspire.

Revisiting the Idea of Vocation: Theological Explorations.

The UFS Theological Explorations series is an initiative of the Faculty of Theology and Religion at the University of the Free State UFS, situated in Bloemfontein, South Africa. These difficult questions permeate his exploration of exclusion hate and embrace love. I finally cracked it open and got about half way through it before putting it away.

Papers can be from any religious, theological, or atheological tradition. This kind of call sounds strange to our age of tribalism, though perhaps no stranger than any age where we find it easy to love those like us, less easy to love those unlike us, and not possible at all to love those who do not love us. Defences of traditional understandings of timelessness and omnipresence using recent work in temporal ontology, such as the moving spotlight.

Exclusion & Embrace: A Theological Exploration of Identity, Otherness, and Reconciliation

Volf—who had just delivered a lecture on the topic of Exclusion and Embrace at a prayer breakfast for the United Nations when the first hijacked plane hit the World Trade Center—will present a lecture and receive his award in Louisville during the first week of April, 2002.

Thinking Otherwise: Theological Explorations of Joseph Smith's Revelations

Volf's focus is not on social strategies or programs but, rather, on showing us new ways to understand ourselves and our relation to our enemies. Life at the end of the twentieth century presents us with a disturbing reality.
