The Souls of Black Folk

Washington has hitherto said little aloud. And all this life and love and strife and failure,—is it the twilight of nightfall or the flush of some faint-dawning day? So common is this that one-half think it normal; so unquestioned, that we almost fear to question if the end of racing is not gold, if the aim of man is not rightly to be rich. Some day he must stop, for his massive frame is showing decline.
