These changes are expected to increase as temperatures increase and as summer droughts deepen. For example, based on a 6.

Case Study: California Blackouts

To properly address this may require additional mechanical ventilation to maintain safe air quality in your home. Department of Energy USDOE Industrial Technologies Program estimates 7 percent savings potential in total US industrial energy use through the application of proven best practice. There has also been work completed considering both relative social vulnerability and environmental health data see WSDOH 2018.
