Just Decided!

Courts must interpret the Malawi Constitution from the democratic ideal and its astute protection of fundamental human rights.

Okeke v Minister of Home Affairs and another (Civil Cause No. 73 of 1997) ((Civil Cause No. 73 of 1997)) [2001] MWHC 36 (08 July 2001);

These instruments require authorities of member countries not to undermine these standards and principles in decisions affecting citizens. How courts approach the matter determines how far this, as it prides itself, unique Constitution goes to protect our fundamental rights. This view is supported by the House of Lords decision in R v Inland Revenue Commissioners ex parte National Federation of Self Employed and Small Businesses Ltd.

Just Decided!

Associated Provincial Picture Houses Ltd vs Wednesbury Corporation was a Court of Appeal decision approved by the House of Lords in R vs Hillingdon London Borough Council ex p. . It brings to the fore a problem which concerns many scholars and commentators on our Constitution and those interested in the promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights.

Just Decided!

He admits detaining and deporting Mr. Further step is made by creating Okean. I would not myself rule him out on the ground that he has no standing.

Okeke v Minister of Home Affairs and another (Civil Cause No. 73 of 1997) ((Civil Cause No. 73 of 1997)) [2001] MWHC 36 (08 July 2001);

On reading sections 15 2 and 46 it is clear the constitutional framers never intended the restrictive interpretation. More specifically, the Human Rights Commission under the Constitution can investigate human rights violations. .

Okean

This is what I suppose prompted Lord Justice Roskill in R v Inland Revenue Commissioners, ex parte National Federation of Self Employed and Small Businesses Ltd. FIRST RESPONDENT AND THE CONTROLLER OF IMMIGRATION.
