Again, if the decision is not to prosecute, they are invited to contact us if they have any questions. Centralizing the provision of RJ services may appear as a step toward the expansion of RJ in terms of implementation, funding and capacity ; however, this process may re-shape i.

Not Quite Lynching: Informal Justice in Northern Ireland

We have delivered changes to our victim update processes. It was noted that the debate was scheduled for 5.

The Northern Ireland Assembly

If it is an issue that needs referred to a prosecutor, they will refer the caller to the prosecutor who took the decision. Official figures indicate that just over a third of 10- to 17-year-olds participating in this restorative justice process reoffend within a year.

Cooperation between policymakers, researchers and practitioners in the centre of Youth Justice, Northern Ireland

Individual respondents answered pre-set open-ended questions. It explains what our role is, how we represent the public and not specifically the victims and witnesses, but that we have standards in respect of victims and witnesses. We have upgraded our information technology systems, adding flags, which better assist call-handling staff to identify areas of risk; for instance, flagging addresses at which firearms are held.

Ending 30 Years of Mayhem: Lessons from Northern Ireland

Therefore, it will only become the Northern Ireland Assembly's responsibility on that date.
