Francis Harvey

All these requirements are removed or fundamentally changed in the homeworking scenario. Reference is usually made to the Internet, as it is the climax of the present network development.

PUBLICATIONS — aziz cucher

. These networks create their own time-space configurations, and therefore the pointlessness of pursuing the meta-truth of social practices through technical cause-and-effect is realised. Today, the dynamic adoption of challenging new realms of information technologies and their spatial implications are visible and concrete evidence of the potential that the science of geography has at the dawn of the new millennium.
