UN Women

They went through the basic solar program before specializing in the fabrication of cookers — a task traditionally associated with men, as it involves metal work and welding.

Guides & Workshops

A few key practices shape how employees view opportunity and fairness Manager support, sponsorship, and impartial hiring and promotion practices are key elements in creating a workplace that delivers opportunity and fairness to everyone.

Chapter 11: Women and the Environment

The same trend holds for other valuable programs such as parenting resources, health checks, and bereavement counseling. For every 100 men promoted and hired to manager, only 72 women are promoted and hired.

Women's Organizations You Need to Know

As women are primary caregivers to children, the elderly and the sick, whole communities rely on them. Women around the world continue the fight against climate change, making sustainable consumption choices, and improving access to, control over and conservation of resources.
