The Constant Couple or, A Trip to the Jubilee by George Farquhar

Other parallel characters add the right amount of humour to the plotline, but it is Aadar who stands out for his zoned-out act. Authors, and some who do not generally deal in wonders, often make persons, the most tenderly attached to each other, so easily forget the shape, the air, the every feature of the dear beloved, as to pass, after a few years separation, whole days together, without the least conjecture that each is the very object of the other's search! Many of these books are all time classics appealing to all ages. Farquhar was educated at Foyle College and later, aged 17, he entered Trinity College, Dublin.
