

Changing role of general practioners and its impact on practice managers - A case study of the process leading to the professionalisation of practice managers 1990-1997.

University of Central England in Birmingham - Business Analysis: A potted history

Description: -

-Changing role of general practioners and its impact on practice managers - A case study of the process leading to the professionalisation of practice managers 1990-1997.

-Changing role of general practioners and its impact on practice managers - A case study of the process leading to the professionalisation of practice managers 1990-1997.

Notes: Thesis (M.A.) - University of Central England in Birmingham, 1998.

This edition was published in 1998

Filesize: 60.48 MB

Tags: #Addressing #Issues #Impacting #Advanced #Nursing #Practice #Worldwide

The bargaining of professionalism in emergency care practice: NHS paramedics and higher education

A systematic review conducted by Sangster-Gormley, Martin-Misener, Downe-Wamboldt, and DiCenso identified a number of additional barriers which influence the ability of NPs to practice to their full scope in Canada. Nonetheless, a now robust research base converges on a common source of difficulty among those multilingual learners who experience or are at risk of difficulties with reading comprehension: the language-based competencies central to understanding and making meaning of the words on the page. Women and Mexican Americans receive fewer cardiovascular drugs following myocardial infarction than men and non-Hispanic whites: The Corpus Christi Heart Project, 1988-1990.

The Effective Medical Practice Manager: 15 Essential Functions

Current NHS policy in England encourages patient self-management as part of its programme to reduce the burden of chronic disease Department of Health 2001b and the costs to the health service Taylor and Bury 2007. Health Communication, 22, 105—122. The topic list was adjusted for each focus group due to differences in context and development of the multidisciplinary team.

Healthcare practitioners' personal and professional values

Not all GPs have a passion for organizing multidisciplinary teams or care for older people.

The New Sociology of the Health Service

In more experienced teams, team members felt able to deliver better quality of care to patients: GP: You start really medically, and after two multidisciplinary team meetings, the medical stuff is in order and then we talk about care so much more.

Related Books

- Anne Hébert et le miracle de la parole
- Women workers today.
- Jacques Damase - 30 aus de dition dart et de manifestations diverses; 21 novembre 1979-14 janvier 19
- Bahaya penjahat gunnaan narkoba & infiltrasi kebudajaan asing terhadap generasi muda
- Stanley and the magic lamp