

Educational policies and legislation in China

Homa & Sekey Books - China's education modernisation plan towards 2035

Description: -

-

German fiction -- Early modern, 1500-1700 -- History and criticism

Schnabel, Johann Gottfried, 1692-ca. 1750.

Grimmelshausen, Hans Jakob Christoph von, 1625-1676.

Wickram, Jörg, ca. 1505-ca. 1560.

Industrial promotion -- Switzerland -- Bern (Canton)

Regional planning -- Switzerland -- Bern (Canton)

Programming languages (Electronic computers)

Hebrew language -- Tense.

Hyh (The Hebrew root)

Motorcycle racing -- Great Britain.

Motorcyclists -- Great Britain -- Biography.

Miller, Sammy, 1934-

Education and state -- China

Educational change -- China

Education -- ChinaEducational policies and legislation in China

-Educational policies and legislation in China

Notes: Includes bibliographical references and index.

This edition was published in 2009

Filesize: 48.94 MB

Tags: #EDUCATIONAL #POLICIES #AND #LEGISLATION #IN #CHINA

9

Article 62 The state encourages the use of loans and other financial means to support the development of educational undertakings. Article 60 A violation of the provisions of this Law that constitutes a crime shall be investigated for criminal responsibility according to law.

Education Law of the People's Republic of China

Chinese students embrace the English language. A national education examination that is held illegally shall be nullified by the relevant administrative department of education; the unlawful gains, if any, shall be confiscated; the leading persons directly in charge and other persons directly responsible for it shall be given administrative sanctions according to the law. China is seeking to perfect online education delivery.

Compulsory Education Policy in China

The existing illiterates are mainly located in the rural poor mountain areas and the areas where ethnic minorities inhabit.

Compulsory Education Policy in China

The education and research institutions at all levels should attach importance to the research of theories and practices for illiteracy eradication. The teachers' participation in this task should be included into their daily workload the in the case of extra work, subsidies should be provided to teachers. The report and circulation mechanism concerning the eradication of illiteracy should be built up.

China Tightens Regulation for Online Education

Their lawful rights and interests shall be protected by the State. The parallel contract responsibility system taken by the local governments and educational administrative departments at all levels should be practiced consistently.

Compulsory Education Law of the People's Republic of China

Enterprises, institutions, public organizations and other social organizations and individuals may support the construction of schools and participate in management through proper forms. Under the overall management of the local governments, the primary and secondary schools should carry out supplement education for the illiterates under 15 years old so that they can receive the compulsory education required by the state or meet the standard of illiteracy alleviation. The current curriculum of senior secondary schools consists of two parts: subjects courses and activities.

Related Books

- Praelectiones theologicae, dogmaticae, polemicae, scholasticae, habitae in celeberrima Patavina Acad
- Merthyr Tydfil in 1851 - a study of spatial structure
- Tribuna
- Pioneers in neuroendocrinology - edited by Joseph Meites, Bernard T. Donovan and Samuel M. McCann
- Radioisotopi nella diagnostica delle tireopatie