Even directors who they had once admired like Henri-Georges Clouzot and Marcel Carne seemed now to have lost their ambition; content to play the studio game. Riggan frequently has hallucinations and mocks himself as his Birdman character.

Movie movements that defined cinema: the French New Wave

While jump cuts are regularly used in film and television editing today, at the time, they were very jarring to audiences, who were used to a smooth flow of images onscreen, rather than to editing that calls attention to itself. It was such an experimental form of filmmaking—using portable equipment in a documentary style, fragmented endings and long takes—as well as an experimental form of storytelling.
