Another of the series partly published in 1808, in which a rude facsimile of the original drawings has been attempted, without much success. There's something in that, replied Miss Wren ; you have a sort of an idea in your noddle sometimes. The jorums on the mahogany are capacious, and the glasses, which are freely emptied, would serve as goblets for more than half-pint bumpers; however, in spite of the hilarity, and the liberal circulation of the decanters, decorum is preserved, and the naval commanders are comporting themselves like 'fine old English gentlemen,' while the toast goes round:— A SNUG CABIN, OR PORT ADMIRAL.
