What's happening in the arts world

With over 40 years experience in the arts, BritishContemporary. Our PhD researcher Emily Gray is exploring the reflexive relationship New Contemporaries has had to the culture of the moment, marking both the character of contemporaneity in art, and articulating the relationship of art school education to culture more widely. Between 300 and 500 artists were included within the annual London show, selected by artists and art specialists until 1968.

The British Art Show is the biggest touring exhibition of contemporary art in the UK and it is widely acknowledged as the most important recurrent exhibition of contemporary art produced in this country, unrivalled in its ambition, scope and national reach. They have also allowed contemporary artists to reduce time spent in the actual execution of artwork to a minimum thereby freeing them to focus more on contemplation, creativity and developing groundbreaking ideas, as well as sound preparation for artwork. The veteran Boston singer-songwriter performs a set from Club Passim, which is currently celebrating Black History Month with a monthlong series of concerts, master classes, and more highlighting and celebrating Black artists.
