The Americans with Disabilities Act requires reasonable accommodations, for example, a blind mobility instructor might well argue that he or she could use an assistant when providing mobility training in a potentially dangerous area. Technical Requirements The letterpress books in the Correspondence series are too fragile to be photocopied. To understand the roots of this conflict, it is necessary to examine some of the developments in the field of working with the blind over the three decades preceding the establishment of the National Accreditation Council.

Resources

There are many things which cause blindness.

Resources

Nevada has dramatically expanded its services in the area of personal care assistance. The applicant would need to demonstrate his or her ability to perceive what a sighted instructor would consider a potentially dangerous situation.
