Suffrage Stories

Copyright When we booked to stay for a few days at a Landmark Trust apartment see at the top of a venerable building in The Close in Salisbury I was relishing a brief immersion in the world of Trollope and had entirely forgotten that even here I would be treading on the heels, as I do in London, of one of my heroines — Millicent Garrett Fawcett. This is the seventh: Alison Garland Miss Alison Garland, who was standing as a Liberal for Portsmouth South, but did not have the backing of the Coalition Government. Arthur Harmon Winn, with selections from his work.

The Struggle for Women's Rights: 1500

Biographical sketches of Unitarian ministers active at the close of the nineteenth century and in the early decades of the twentieth. Atherton, 53 State Street, Boston, treasurer. She came from a family where the father was mostly absent — indeed where her parents may not have been formally married — where her two considerably older brothers from an early age made their own way in the world, where her mother coped alone with bringing up her two daughters, living in towns along the south coast of England.

She later became the first female newspaper columnist in New York City while working for Horace Greeley at the New York Tribune.

Full text of World's congress of representative women; a historical résumé for popular circulation of the World's congress of representative women, convened in Chicago on May 15, and adjourned on May 22, 1893, under the auspices of the Woman's branch of the World's congress auxiliary

Although it might not be brought about in the next Parliament, some practical steps might be taken in the way of giving more powers to local authorities.

Women's Rights, Abolitionism, and Reform in Antebellum and Gilded Age America

Chapters were able to direct their energies where they saw fit, which allowed Black WCTU chapters to concentrate on projects that benefited African Americans in their communities.

The Journey: 2010

During the Methodists took the lead in helping form Methodist churches for Freedmen, and moving into Southern cities even to the point of taking control, with Army help, of buildings that had belonged to the southern branch of the church. Even nonworking women labored by shopping for the household, producing food and clothing, cleaning, educating children, and performing similar activities. The political power of this country has always shown itself superior to the judicial power—the latter ever shaping and basing its decisions on the policy of the dominant party.

For Heart and Hearth... and the Rights of Women: Radical Christianity in Pursuit of Conservative Ends in the Nineteenth Century

Eminent publicists have long conceded this power to State legislatures as well as to congress, declaring that women as citizens of the United States have the right to vote, and that a simple enabling act is all that is needed. On their return they recommended that no effort be made to send a minister there and Mr.
