In retirement, Ockenga became the president of Gordon College and Divinity School in 1969, and he oversaw the merger of Gordon Divinity School with Conwell School of Theology to form Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary. He was a theologically conservative, spiritually earnest young man who took his sanctification very seriously, yearned for personal and church-wide revival—and had a bit of trouble figuring out how to get a good spouse! There is growing interest in the story of mid-twentieth-century evangelicalism.
