Structure

The charge transfer complex formed by tetrathiofulvalene and tetracyanoquinodimethane has one of the highest electrical conductivities reported for an organic solid.

Recent achievements in the chemistry of five and six member ring nitrogen heterocycles

Finally, the Fischer indole synthesis is a remarkable sequence of tautomerism, nucleophilic addition, and elimination reactions occurring subsequent to phenylhydrazone formation. Undoubtedly, this method proved to be most efficient for preparing bridge-diversified polyanilines, which are semiconducting materials. Structure

In this review we report on the top 25 most commonly utilized nitrogen heterocycles found in pharmaceuticals. The use of alkali or alkaline-earth metals, such as lithium Li and magnesium Mg, as reductants for our designed direct nitrogeneration is possible owing to their high reactivity toward unreactive dinitrogen.
