A Reading of the Ghadar Poetry. Within India there was little effort to coordinate activities from province to province.

The Ghadar Party

This results in her ambitious, but failed, attempt to create an anti-authoritarian history of India. The peak immigration of the early pioneers occurred between 1907 and 1910 with about 7,000 people arriving in the US during this early period. These weaknesses of understanding, of leadership, of organization, all resulted in what one can only call a tremendous waste of valuable human resources.

Bhagat Singh and the Ghadar Movement

Close links also developed between the United India House group, consisting mainly of radical nationalist students, and the Khalsa Diwan Society, and in 1913 they decided to send a deputation to meet the Colonial Secretary in London and the Viceroy and other officials in India. Meanwhile, the Indians on the West Coast of the US had been in search of a leader and had even thought of inviting Ajit Singh, who had become famous in the agitation in Punjab in 1907.
