Virtue Epistemology

The sensitive self is characterized by comprehension, responsiveness, and mindfulness—all ways of demonstrating openness to new ideas and information.

The result of the joint rejection of factualism and cognitivism is a novel metasemantic framework that does not understand meaning on the basis of truth and reference and truth-conditions but on the basis of the notion of expression of states of mind though, for a recent non-content-centric exposition of expressivism see Charlow 2014.

The Virtuous Skeptic

This complicates any account of the apparent prospects of virtue responsibilism, since these prospects are likely to vary from one virtue responsibilist view to another. Medina 2013 offers an account of subjects with exceptional intellectual courage, such as Sor Juana Ines de la Cruz in seventeenth century Mexico.

Metaepistemology

Sosa briefly sketches a model of epistemic justification that he says would provide the required kind of explanation.
