I was informed by one of the men a Wurunjerri who attended that meeting that that tribe was organised like his own. A mail runs, or is supposed to run, weekly to Queensland, and cattle are driven along the stock-route in enormous mobs. It is to be noted that the country claimed by this tribe overlaps that of the Turrbal tribe, whose boundaries are said to have been the Pine River on the north, and the Logan River to the south, extending about 20 miles inland, and including the present site of Brisbane and its suburbs.
