However, academic opportunities may not be on a par with public schools. Determining the eligibility of a position filled by a retiree uses the same eligibility criteria as a position filled by a non-retiring member.

Blind & Visually Impaired

For TRS Plan 1, there is an additional requirement that they must not have withdrawn contributions. In fact, Braille-using students—children who generally have less vision—are often better equipped to keep pace in a regular classroom than their partially sighted peers who do not use Braille.

Students who are blind deserve the same opportunities as their sighted peers, especially when it comes to education. In textbooks for subjects like science and history, however, much as they rely on charts and graphs to convey data, illustrations are usually omitted. This is of serious concern because partially sighted students who do not learn Braille do not reach literacy levels on a par with sighted peers.
