By 1763, there were only a few Tequesta left in Florida, and most of them were evacuated to Cuba when the Spanish ceded Florida to the British in 1763, under the terms of the Treaty of Paris, which ended the Seven Years' War. The literary device of 'a day in the life' is especially useful in bringing life to the standard archaeological facts. All of these tribes diminished in numbers during the period of Spanish control of Florida.
