Option for the Poor

Ramona Gecas International Studies Major The United States' Refusal to Ratify the Kyoto Treaty Bibliography Bush, George H. Coalitions and Partners Call To Action is a member of several church reform coalitions and frequently collaborates with partner organizations on projects for justice in the Catholic Church. United in our commitment to the Universal Church, and truly convinced that integral ecology is inseparable from an integral society, we make a definitive pledge to respond to the climate crisis—securing a sustainable future for our people and our planet.

An urgent call for ecological conversion, hope in the face of climate emergency

This anthropocentrism affected European mission activities as well. Many religious men and women who had worked hard for many years to raise awareness of ecological issues within their Church and faith communities, were deeply grateful for the encyclical.

Ecology for your Theology Bookshelf

The encyclical highlights the adverse impacts of the climate change on the poor and most vulnerable. As a follow-up to the Alternative Globalization Addressing People and Earth AGAPE process, which concluded with the AGAPE Call presented at the WCC 9th Assembly in Porto Alegre in 2006, the WCC initiated a programme focused on eradicating poverty, challenging wealth accumulation and safeguarding ecological integrity based on the understanding that Poverty, Wealth and Ecology are integrally related.
