Biden promotes child care and education priorities as part of infrastructure pitch

Early Childhood Research Quarterly 2002;17 1 :52-86. While some studies have found even stronger effects for children from less advantaged backgrounds suggesting that this issue may be even more critical for children already at greater risk for school failure the findings indicate that children from more advantaged backgrounds are also influenced by the quality of care.

The updated Child Care Exclusion list can be found. Although challenging and at times not possible in an ECE setting, people who are not fully vaccinated should physically distance from others who are not fully vaccinated as much as possible and wear a mask. Preventing COVID-19 for those who are not fully vaccinated in these activities remains important.

ECE programs should also be supportive of people who are fully vaccinated, but choose to wear a mask, as a personal choice or because they have a medical condition that may weaken their immune system.

Child care and education: quality, availability and parental involvement

But about the same shares of parents in families where both parents work full time 22% and in families with one parent who works full time and one who works part time 25% say their children participate in after-school activities; just 9% of families with one parent at home say this. Parents of teenagers are more likely than those whose only or oldest child is ages 6 to 12 to say their children participate in after-school activities 22% vs.
