Climate Information

It is easy to demonstrate how silly this is. He appeared on February 13 debating with scientist Sir Brian Hoskins, chairman of the Grantham Institute for Climate Change at Imperial College, London, to discuss recent flooding that supposedly was linked to man-made climate change. For each toxic substance, releases to water are provided at the national, regional provincial and territorial and facility level and by source including sewage treatment and waste management.

Overview: Climate Data Processing

Coal plants produce a lot of CO₂, but without the aid of modern scrubbers and such, they also produce SO_x, NO_x, particulates matter and all the other crap you see in the Beijing air. Speaking at the in Sydney today, , research vice president at Gartner, said must examine the potential business impact of these trends and adjust business models and operations accordingly, or risk losing competitive advantage to those who do. The theory that dietary fat causes obesity and heart disease, based on a couple of terrible studies in the 1950s, became unchallenged orthodoxy and is only now fading slowly.

Cartography The traditional close association between geography and maps is appropriate given the discipline's concern with space and place. The problem is that the CO₂ production from a coal plant takes as much as 10-100x more money to eliminate than it takes to eliminate all the other bad stuff. Diverted waste includes waste materials that go through any physical transformation, such as composting, separation or sorting in preparation for recycling or reuse.

This chart is a year or so old and has not been updated in that time, but it shows the global temperature trend using the most popular surface temperature data set. Data sources and methods Data sources The data used for the Solid waste diversion and disposal indicator comes from 2 Statistics Canada surveys; both are carried out every 2 years. The IPCC actually admits the possibility of lukewarming within its consensus, because it gives a range of possible future temperatures: it thinks the world will be between about 1.

Climate Skeptic

I think we fall into this trap all the time in modern politics, worried more about preventing the other team from winning than about doing the right thing. The effect it has on temperature measurement is hotly debated between warmists and skeptics.

Climate Information

The National Research Council NRC defines a CDR as a time series of measurements of sufficient length, consistency, and continuity to determine climate variability and change. When the entire signal one is trying to measure is equal to the manual adjustments one is making to measurements, it probably makes sense to put a LOT of scrutiny on the adjustments.

The clearest example is a measurement point that once was in the country but has been engulfed by development — this at one time was the USHCN measurement point with the most warming since 1900, but it was located in an open field in 1900 and ended up in an asphalt parking lot in the middle of Tucson.

Versus the satellite measurements it was 3x too high.
