How is aid changing in the Covid

Compared to the same period in 2019, ODA commitments are increasing substantially from IFIs and marginally from multilateral institutions but declining from bilateral donors. Although Merle Black might object that we are so far down the hole that we might never be able to get ourselves out of, I still maintain that there can and will be an end to what is corrupting this great nation. People should have the ability to build their own dreams without being criticized, no matter the circumstances.

Uganda Overview

The decline and deterioration of salaries has made women withdraw from the workforce.

Poverty eradication and the role for social workers

The pace and pattern of economic development have to generate sustainable work opportunities on this scale and at a level of productivity that would enable poor households to meet minimum consumption standards. Haas Institute Director John A.
