Results for: Collecting

Most Staffordshire figures made from 1740 to 1900 were produced by small potteries and makers' marks are generally absent.

Prattware and Pearlware

One gunner lies on his back with his feet in the air.

London Cryers

We specialize in the decorative arts of the 17th-20th century.

Vase

This very carefully chosen title is most helpful in defining just what we mean by Pratt ware. Shalimar Farm privately by the authors , 2005.

Cow Creamer and Cover

On one side is depicted a gentleman in an exaggeratedly high wig with his servant standing beside him, and on the other side is a similarly caricatured lady and her servant.

Vase

Suffice to say that in the period circa 1800-1840 much of this ware was produced in pearlware by British potters in a range of sixteen or so patterns named by collectors as Butterfly; Carnation; Dahlia; Double Rose; Dove; Grape; Leaf; Oyster; Primrose; Urn; Single Rose; Strawflower; Sunflower; War Bonnet and Zinnia. As with porcelain figures, the same model might be produced in fully painted and plain versions, and the painting often varies greatly between different examples, especially when moulds were in use for several years.
