Lefkowitz and Guy MacLean Rogers, Black Athena Revisited, 1996, The University of North Carolina Press, pp. Cultural unity of African peoples as part of a southern cradle Diop attempted to demonstrate that the African peoples shared certain commonalities, including language roots and other cultural elements like regicide, circumcision, totems, etc.

Power and Privilege: Ancient Egyptian race controversy (from Wikipedia)

In modern times, the debate has moved away from Egyptology and into the popular domain as a result of , which began in the 19th century and which tends to insist that Ancient Egypt was a civilization. Yurco note that among peoples outside Egypt, the Nubians were closest ethnically to the Egyptians, shared the same culture in the predynastic period, and used the same pharaonic political structure. Political activity Diop had since his early days in Paris been politically active in the Rassemblement Democratique Africaine RDA , an African nationalist organisation led by.

Cheikh Anta Diop

His cultural theory attempted to show that Egypt was part of the African environment as opposed to incorporating it into Mediterranean or Middle Eastern venues. Black Africa: the economic and cultural basis for a federated state is the book that best expresses Diop's political aims and objectives. These descendants who left the original continent for the cold climate on the over continents gave birth to white skin people by
