However, if you have also started to notice cracks in house walls appearing, especially on the same side of the house as the tree roots, it is a strong possibility the tree is a factor in causing the damage. Trees that are covered by some sort of protection such as a can still be required to be felled if they are found to be damaging buildings. G see Further reading contains a useful table of tree water uptake, listing trees with the lowest demand posing the least risk to the highest demand posing the most risk.

Real Palm Trees

Damage included roofs, downed trees and several buildings that were totally collapsed, he said. Having the tree felled will prevent further water uptake; having it reduced or root-pruned will reduce the amplitude of movement.
