Philemon confident of winning

The associated promise to give women a fair deal and equal access appeared first as Point Seven of the government's Eight Point Improvement Plan 1972 which called for 'a rapid increase in the equal and active participation of women in all forms of economic and social activity'.

The missing rib: mobilizing church women for change in Papua New Guinea.

Women, churches, and nation The women's groupings of the various Christian denominations are mobilizing women across PNG in rural areas as well as towns. The act formalized the National Council of Women which had been created by a group of local women in 1975 as an NGO to assist rural women Bonnell 1985:55. An observation by a Rhenish missionary in Bongu Madang in 1899 paraphrased by Stewart Firth illustrates the exasperation missionaries experienced in endeavouring to transmit the new morality: 'Without exception', the missionary complained, 'every villager lacked a sense of sinfulness' Firth 1986:150.

The missing rib: mobilizing church women for change in Papua New Guinea.

As late as the early 1960s, women sat on one side of the church while men sat on the other in Kwato, Milne Bay Province.
