Lloyd's Etc.

From 1834—37, an attempt was made to include all British vessels of 50 tons or over, although very little information is given about those which had not been surveyed. It is possible that that is the yacht. A classification society is, in essence, a professional third party that assures the owner or buyer of a yacht that the vessel is built to an accepted standard.

Lloyd's Etc.

It can sometimes prove useful for 19th century British and American ships trading with the continent. At the same time, brokers seem divided on the resale value of a classification.
