Thoreau writes in his journal: 8 A. This time, in an entry dated November 18, 1857, Thoreau writes: Flannery is the hardest-working man I know. Theanor and Amphitryon, a parable.

What I Think: An Open Note to Henry David Thoreau

Thoreau observed and lamented this irony in a lengthy but pertinent entry into his journal.

1856

Nature; is Man rising or falling? But months and years pass, and the aspirant is found in his old place, unchanged. Do not, then, read the reviews. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country.

Charles Eliot Norton who, within a year, had lost his beautiful wife, was then resident in London with his family, and gave help and wise counsel as to planning the trip to France and Italy on the way to Egypt. It seems to be a rule of wisdom never to rely on your memory alone, scarcely even in acts of pure memory, but to bring the past for judgment into the thousand-eyed present, and live ever in a new day. The diversity of opinion is quite amusing.
